

10,000 CATTLE

On the Market Court Day--Prices High and Trade Brisk--Hogs Sold at 5 Cents.

With the cattle sold the latter part of last week there were at least 10,000 cattle on the market. Trade was so brisk that the scales could not weigh stock as fast as they were sold. The best 1,000 pound steers sold at 5 cents, with bulk of sales around 4 1/2 cents. Yearlings, 4 1/2 cents, with some extra ones at 4 1/2 cents; heifers, 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 cents; cows, $3.25 to $3.75; old cows and work oxen, 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 cents; bulls, 3 to 4 cents; a few 125 pound hogs at 5 cents. A large crowd at the pens and to say it was a busy one will hardly express the state of affairs. It was hustle the entire day. Some pens being filled as many as three times during the day. It will take two days at least to clear up the stock on hand. Buyers said that prices were too high, but sales were as rapid as we have ever seen in this market.

LARGE CROWD

Hears Splendid Speech of Hon. W. A. Cullop at the Court House Monday Afternoon.

A large crowd gathered at the court house here Monday afternoon to hear Hon. W. A. Cullop, congressman from Indiana. Mr. Cullop made a stirring speech for the Democratic State ticket and his remarks were well received. He held the attention of the large crowd for over an hour and his remarks were frequently interrupted by applause. At the conclusion of his remarks the crowd wanted more of such good Democratic speaking and loudly called for Kentucky's distinguished statesman, Hon. Jere A. Sullivan, of Richmond, to address them. Mr. Sullivan responded and in his own inimitable way soon had the already enthusiastic crowd worked up to a high pitch of enthusiasm and when the meeting adjourned McCreary and the whole State ticket had several more workers, ready to go out into the arena and help fight the people's battle—the battle of the just and right—the battle of Democracy.

Hats to Order.

The Cincinnati Hat Mfg. Co. have a representative and demonstrator in this city. They are located in the Cockrell building on Maysville street, formerly occupied by Joe Miller. They take your measure and make your hat out of the raw material right here in Mt. Sterling. They can give you any style you wish with any trimming at prices ranging from $3 to $6. This firm will give you a hat that will fit your head and will not jostle around like the ready made kind. You can't put paper in a shoe to make it fit, neither can you put paper in a hat to make it fit. Shape of your head will be taken FREE OF CHARGE.

They also make beaver hats for ladies and it will well pay the ladies of Mt. Sterling to give them a call.

P. S. This is a rare opportunity, and this concern will only have a representative here for two weeks, so you had better come early.

Miss Lewis Becomes Bride.

The marriage of Mr. Chalmers L. Parker and Miss Amanda Summers Lewis, which was solemnized in Lexington last Wednesday evening, October 11, came as quite a surprise to their many friends. Eluding friends, they left here on the 2:10 train for Lexington where they were quietly married by Elder I. J. Spencer. The bride is the lovely and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Lewis, and is loved by all who know her, while the groom is the son of Mrs. Mary H. Parker, a prosperous young farmer and a great favorite with young and old. They will reside at the home of the groom, near Steubenville.

Tom Sydnor Injured.

Sunday, October 8, in Clark county, Mr. Thomas Sydnor was thrown from a horse and his hip was broken. On account of his advanced age his suffering has been intense. Mr. Sydnor has a host of friends in this city and county who will regret to learn of his injury.

Boy Scouts.

Mr. R. H. White has been commissioned as Master Scout and is preparing to organize the boys of Mt. Sterling and Montgomery county. The idea is to teach the boys discipline and to improve them morally and physically. As "Bob" is a good scout himself, we hope and believe the movement will be a great success.

Rangers For Eastern Kentucky Mountains.

A conference participated in by representatives of all the mountain counties of Eastern Kentucky was held in Jackson last week at which it was proposed to establish a system of patrolling the feud counties on the order of the plan followed by the Texas Rangers.

The proposed rangers are to be assigned to certain districts and patrol them as policemen patrol their beats. A somewhat similar system prevails where a mounted State constabulary is maintained.

Leading professional business men from all over Eastern Kentucky are behind the movement.

Glick Bros. Sell Their Business.

Charles Bernard, of Camargo, this county, has purchased of Glick Brothers their stock of merchandise and will take possession December 1. He has rented his farm in the county and will move his family to this city to make his home.

Sometime before the first of December Glick Bros. will put on a great cut price sale and prices will be cut deeper than ever heard of before.

Summer Coon No More.

John W. Hancock, of this city, who had been an inmate of the Lexington Asylum for many months, committed suicide at that institution Wednesday and the body was brought here for burial. He was 65 years old. Hancock was an eccentric character and was a writer of some note under the non-de-plume of "Summer Coon."

ADDIE K. KELLY, Admr.

J. M. ADAMS

Of This County, Held On Bail Before Judge of Fayette Circuit Court.

After having issued a warrant for J. M. Adams upon a requisition from the Governor of West Virginia, as shown in another column herein, Governor Willson, of Kentucky, directed the Sheriff of Montgomery county to withhold further execution of the warrant until he could hear both sides and decide whether or not he would allow the warrant to be finally executed.

The hearing was had upon last Saturday evening and Governor Willson then took the matter under advisement and asked the Attorneys in the case to file a brief with him upon the proposition as to whether or not the charges made in the warrant issued in West Virginia constituted an offense under the laws of West Virginia. The parties from West Virginia claim that they will be able to show that while Adams only paid $300 for the cattle he bought, when they were sold in Cincinnati he got $900 of the amount. As we are informed, Adams admits that this is true, but says that Murphy paid him a debt which he owed him.

Governor Willson directed that Adams execute a bond before Judge Charles E. Kerr in the sum of $500 for his appearance in the event the warrant should be finally executed.

Judge Harlan Dead.

Associate Justice John M. Harlan, Kentuckian, and a member of the Supreme Court for more than thirty-three years, died Saturday morning in Washington after a brief illness of intestine trouble.

Judge Harlan had been one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of the United States for nearly 34 years and had served longer on the bench than any other man with the exception of Judge Fields, who served 34 years and 6 months.

Although his independence and his vigorous hatred for "judicial legislation" drew from Justice Harlan more dissents than from any other Justice who ever sat in the court, so magnetic was his presence, so benevolent his manner, so beautiful his old age that no Justice was as much beloved.

Honesty and Real Estate.

Candor in advertisements, like anything else, can be satirized, as it was successfully in a recent cartoon which showed a hillside adorned with such signs as: "Scalpine. It really doesn't help the hair, but it smells nice." "The 'Lucy' corset costs more but we can get it." "Scourm a pretty good cleaning soap for the money. You can't expect much for five cent." "The Middlebrook Savings Bank pays five and one-half per cent on deposits. Not very safe, but you may like to take a chance." Frankness in advertising is not a fad; we could no more revert to exaggerations as extreme as those of old-school advertising than the stage could return to melodrama as ranting as it once enjoyed. Some of the most harmful misrepresentations and exaggerations nowadays are not deliberate and malicious, but come from overenthusiastic "town boosters." By this situation the lank shark greatly profits. He uses local pride in some Stats as his shield against investigation; and sometimes zealous commercial clubs and boards of trade thus become his unwary accomplices. One of our correspondents believes that nonresident investors should be protected by investigating committees from State and city real estate exchanges. The advertiser who in his literature or advertisements or letters would dare to refer the customer to this committee would be trusted. "By this means the fraudulent companies could not be endorsed and could not use the real estate exchange for furthering their propositions. At the same time it could be made known right and left that without such indorsement the advertising companies would be open for investigation." The men who advertise real estate have the same reason as the managers of other lines of business to fall in with the modern business tendency toward candor.—Collier's Weekly.

Autumn.

Now that autumn has come along, it may be we'll miss the song of the birds that made the spring-time fair and sweet; but though the winds blow keen and cool, autumn's wealth will be unrolled in gold and shining silver at our feet. Now that autumn has come along, still the memory of a song shall linger like an echo, fair and fleet. Though the roses leave their stems, still the rosiest of gems—and jewels will be scattered at your feet. When Life's autumn comes along, shall not love have still a song—shall not hearts that know no changing thrill and beat, with a later joy supreme, when they lay us down to dream with God's lilies clustering white at head and feet.

An Example From Boston.

The value of straightforwardness in business probably never had a more striking illustration than in the success with which James L. Richards has been running the Boston Gas Company. The price of gas has been going down and the profits of the business have been going up. The public is treated well and the public is friendly to the company. More gas is being burned in the city than ever before. Therefore, all the gas is cheaper, the receipts are larger. The customer feels that he is getting a square deal. Mr. Richards recently said: "Tell the people the truth, work openly and they will be just to corporations which follow that policy." When dealt with candidly the controlling majority in any American community will be reasonable." The gas situation was in a bad way in Boston when it was put in the hands of Mr. Richards on account of what he had already done in managing street cars. His gas company now has the exclusive privilege of selling gas in Boston, and it does not abuse that privilege. When all the companies were consolidated in 1905 gas was selling at one dollar. It is now selling at eighty cents. By the contract between the city and the company the rate of dividends can only go up as the price of gas goes down, and under this arrangement there has been an increase from seven to nine per cent. Of course, Mr. Richards has more than one kind of ability, but the ability to recognize the nature of our public is an important one, and he is a leader in the business of our day when he says: "The more the public knows about the corporations serving them the better it will be for both interests."—Collier's Weekly.

Haggin Contract Meets With Approval.

The district board of the Burley Tobacco Society held its annual meeting in Lexington, and the principal business transacted was the adoption of a number of amendments to the charter and by-laws of the society to meet the new conditions which are presented under the new plan for a ten-year pool and the establishment of a plan for the manufacture of one-tenth of the tobacco to be pooled. The conditions agreed to by the Executive Committee with James B. Haggin, the New York millionaire, by which Mr. Haggin enters the pool and becomes a director in the manufacturing branch of the society, were unanimously approved. Much enthusiasm was shown at the meeting over the prospects for the new pool and manufacturing scheme, and also over the alliance made by the society with Mr. Haggin. C. H. Berryman, manager of Mr. Haggin's Elmendorf Farm, and who represented his employer at the meeting, said that the plan of the tobacco growers having a co-operative manufacturing had been a pet idea of Mr. Haggin for three or four years.

BE NOT DETERRED BY ENVY

Mather Tells His Readers This Should Not Keep Them From Acquiring Merit.

You have read who suffered the ostracism at Athens, and what a petty reason the country fellow offered why he gave his voice for the banishment of Aristides, "because he was everywhere always called the just;" and for what reason the Ephori laid a fine on Agesilaus, "because he possessed above all men the heart of the Lacedaemonians."

You have read the reason why the Ephesians expelled the best of their citizens—"Nemo de nobis unus excellat, sed si quis exierit, alio in loco et apud alios sit;" "If any are determined to excel their neighbors, let them find another place to do it."

You have read that he who conquered Hannibal saw it necessary to retire from Rome, that the merit of others might be more noticed. My authors tell me that, "at all times nothing has been more dangerous among men than too illustrious a degree of merit." But, my readers, the terror of this envy must not intimidate you. I must press you to do good; and be so far from affrighted at it, you shall rather be generously delighted with the most envious deplumations.—Mather's "Esays to Do Good."

NO KEY FOR TIMMINS.

"The other night," remarked Mr. Timmins, deferentially, after he had waited two hours for an opening. "Brown was going home when he was shot at by a footpad."

"Well," said Mrs. Timmins, sternly, "would you expect him to be shot by a policeman or a clergyman?" "No, my dear," said Mr. Timmins, "but he'd have been killed if the bullet hadn't struck a latch key in his vest pocket."

"Indeed," said Mrs. Timmins. "I happen to know that he is insured for £1,000, and if he hadn't had that key his wife would be a rich woman today. If you're hinting for a latch key, Timmins, you'll have to give me a better reason than that. Now I'm going to bed, so if you want to read you'll have to sit by the kitchen fire; but don't you dare to light the gas!"

Then, with a sigh, he resumed the article he had been reading, "How to Manage a Wife."—Tit Bits.

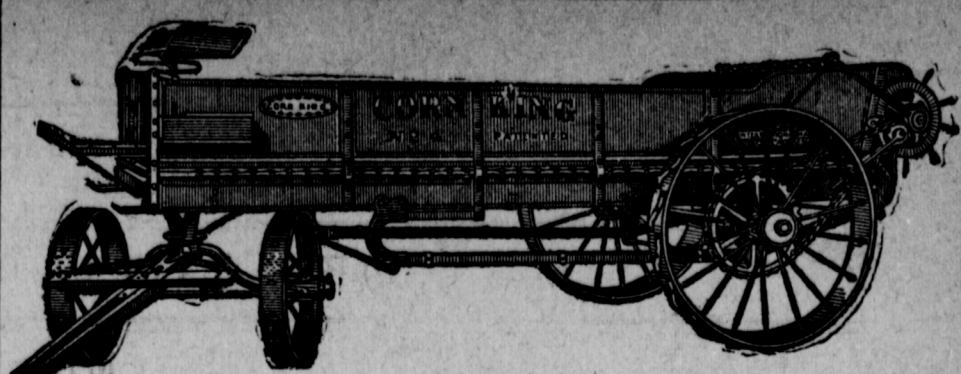

TRAVEL VIA ROCKING CHAIR.

I am a rocking chair tourist, writes George Willoughby in the National Magazine. I'd rather read a good book on travel than to go myself. It doesn't take so much time, nor so much money, and if the truth be known, I haven't much of either. It is surprising what a lot of traveling one can do much through books, and not miss a single day at the office. So let us understand one another in the beginning. There are some who go and some who stay behind, but all are tourists, whether the trip is made in a steamer chair or in the old side-arm rocker. I can't begin to tell you how many times I've crossed the ocean in the old chair, and never once have I been seasick. I have enjoyed "home cooking" en route and altogether have had a mighty fine time of it.

AMONG STRANGERS.

"It's a sad thing to be friendless and a stranger," said Mr. Chuggins. "Didn't think you were sentimental."

"I'm not. But when you strike a garage where they don't know you they make you pay twice as much for gasoline."

Brotherhood.

As you walk along a country lane in the summer time after twilight, you will hear a low crackling of tiny twigs, the snap of dry leaves. All through the tangle there runs a rustling of living things, the little woods creatures out for the evening on warpath or fodder-hunt or lover's lane. These roamers of the night go out to seek their loves, just like human folk, by beach and palisade and park and hill. That stir and gentle motion of sentient life, flowing through the undergrowth, is laden with some of the same consciousness that beats through our brains, five feet higher off the ground. It roams on the same quests as urge us out under the stars. There is an unguessed companionship and brotherhood among all forms of conscious life, which as yet we surmise but only through glimpses that are dim.

Until a short time before her death she retained all her mental faculties. Mrs. Clark had been a member of the Christain Church for 60 years and had devoted her life to charitable work and will be greatly missed in her neighborhood. Funeral services were held at the residence Thursday, conducted by Rev. Mr. Reynolds, and the interment took place in the North Middletown cemetery. She is survived by six children—Mrs. D. T. J. M. Adams Arrested.

J. M. Adams, a prominent citizen of this county, was arrested here on a charge from West Virginia, of obtaining goods under false pretenses, and his friends are up in arms. Requisition had been issued by Governor Willson, but when the officers attempted to take Adams away his attorneys sued out a writ of habeas corpus. Adams and Luther Murphey purchased some cattle at Wyoming, W. Va., and Adams paid for his purchase. The checks given by Murphey went to protest and he left. The parties who sold the cattle to Murphey and Adams now claim that Adams was a partner of Murphey's in the deal and are trying to hold him.

Adams stands high in this county, where he has been engaged in business for many years as a merchant and stock trader, and has never been known to have engaged in a dishonest transaction. His friends were bitter over the accusation brought against him and will stand by him.

GEORGIA MARBLE

If it's a monument you are going to erect, it should be of GEORGIA MARBLE; if it's a vault, GEORGIA MARBLE is the proper material; if it's a building, GEORGIA MARBLE should be used for both exterior and interior. Because it will not absorb moisture, which prevents decomposition; it withstands heat to 1,000 degrees Fah.; you can get any size, shape or shade desired; it will remain beautiful and unbroken as long as it lasts — and it lasts for ever.

In selecting a monument, it is with the idea of perpetuating the memory of some loved one—but it is not a perpetual monument that soon cracks and crumbles away. Avoid this by asking your dealer to show you samples of "Cherokee," "Creole," "Etowah" and "Kennesaw" Georgia Marble for monuments.

THE LAW OPENLY VIOLATED.

Judge O'Rear, the announced foe of corruption and graft, the apostle of purity and the sponsor for honesty, especially in officials, admits he has not rendered any service as a Judge of the Court of Appeals since about March 1st, last, and will not do so until after the election, a period of more than eight months, yet he continues to receive his monthly salary checks, drawn on the State Treasury, in the face of a plain law to the contrary, with which he, as a capable lawyer, is familiar.

Section 235 of the present Constitution is as follows:

"The salaries of public officers shall not be changed during the terms for which they were elected; but it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to regulate, by a general law, in what cases and what deductions shall be made for NEGLECT OF OFFICIAL DUTIES."

In accordance with this Constitutional command, the Legislature enacted Sections 3763-4, which read thus:

SECTION 3763. "If any JUDGE, Commonwealth's Attorney, or any other officer paid in whole or in part out of the State Treasury, or by any county, shall fail, or neglect without good excuse therefor, to perform the duties of his office, said excuse for failure to perform said duty to be set out in full by affidavit by the person so failing and duly certified by order of court to the Auditor or other paying officer, there shall be deducted from the amount of the salary of such officer thereafter paid to him by State or county such an amount as the total number of days during the year in which he failed or neglected to discharge his duty bears to the whole number of days in the year for which he received compensation; and so much of said amount so deducted as is necessary shall be applied to the payment of a SPECIAL JUDGE or other officer who performs the duty of the JUDGE or officer so failing."

SECTION 3764. "It shall be the duty of the County Judge, by an order entered of record, to enforce the provisions of the preceding section as against County Attorneys, and it shall be the duty of the Fiscal Court to enforce its provisions as against the County Judge; and it shall be the duty of the Circuit Judge to enforce its provisions as against the Commonwealth's Attorney in his district, by an order entered of record, a copy of which shall be sent as soon as entered by Clerk of the Court to the Auditor of Public Accounts. It shall be the duty of the Auditor of Public Accounts to enforce its provisions as against JUDGES OF THE COURT OF APPEALS and Circuit Courts."

During the period named he will have received approximately $3,350.00 of the tax-payers' money, for which no service whatever has been or will be rendered, in return.

He is physically and mentally able to perform his duties, yet he prefers to devote his time and talents in a futile effort to secure a higher salaried office. Meanwhile, eight months of the people's time will have been wasted, the business of our highest court delayed and the working ability of the Court lessened because of the continued absence of one of its members.

We realize some people, like the King, "Can do no wrong," yet somehow or other we cannot be quite satisfied with this sort of honesty.

C. B. PATTERSON, Cashier

GIVE HIM ROPE.

Judge O'Rear says he is for temperance, yet he admits he attended a Sabbath conference at which the rich distiller, Col. McCulloch, was elected Chairman of his Finance Committee, obviously to replenish his campaign fund and undertake to work both ends against the middle; he denounces the use of railroad passes by officials, in the face of an undenied accusation that members of his family now ride on them; he poses as the exemplar of consistency, yet after saying Kentucky is not free from a Senatorial scandal and that a U. S. Senator had been elected from Kentucky by the use of a jack-pot, which reference everybody understood to mean the Bradley-Beckham race, in order to smooth down the ruffled feathers of Bradley and induce him to aid him in getting the whiskey vote into line, with uplifted hand and eyes focused on high heaven exclaimed "I am proud to say of him (Mr. Bradley) that despite the machinations of the lobby, here is one Senator from Kentucky on whose title there is no stain and on whose record there is no blot."

Again he says there are "seventy thousand men in Kentucky who sell their votes" and later that "Kentucky voters will not sell their birthright." Col. McCulloch being a practical politician evidently thought his first statement was correct and undertaking to meet that emergency, in his letters to whiskey men asking for contributions, says: "Every dollar subscribed may mean a vote."

Again he is the very personification of honesty, yet he has devoted eight months of the people's time in a vain endeavor to gratify a personal ambition and will have received about $3,350.00 of the tax-payers' money without rendering any service in return; and thus we might continue indefinitely.

We know of no question he has not either preached or practiced on both sides of, and if enough rope is given him he will assuredly hang himself.

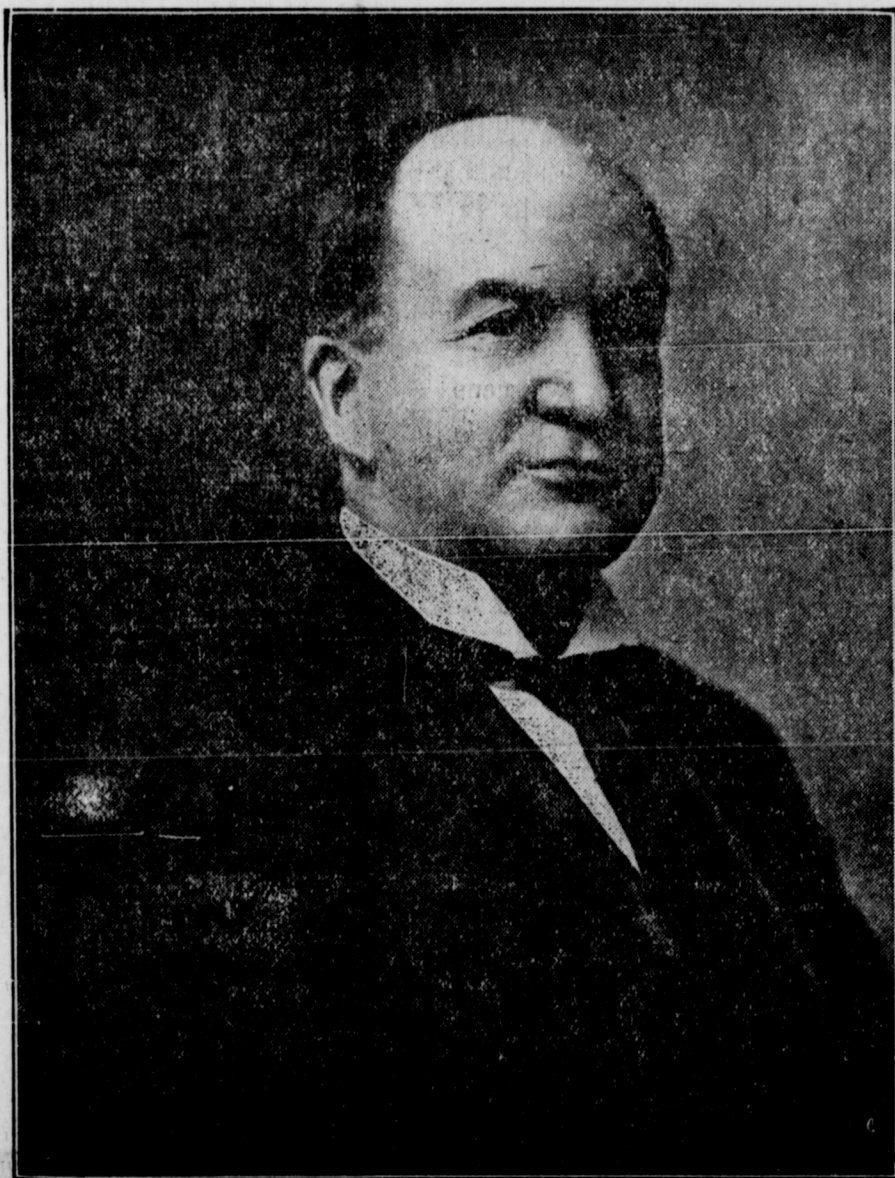

One man who was not in favor of brick streets when the subject was first agitated, while paying his assessment to City Clerk Patterson last week, remarked, "I would not let you take the brick away for double the amount I am now paying you."

That sentiment seems to be unanimous and we, as original brick street enthusiasts, are certainly glad to see everybody so well satisfied.

Remember, if you do not pay your brick street assessment on or before Friday of this week you cannot thereafter do so except in ten annual installments, with six per cent. interest, secured by first mortgage lien upon your property.

We go to press before Hon. Ollie M. James, the next United States Senator from Kentucky, makes his speech at the Court-house, but we know it will be a hammer.

OUR NEXT GOVERNOR

HON. JAMES B. MCCREARY

Unveiling of Morgan Monument at Lexington.

The unveiling of the monument erected to the memory of General John Hunt Morgan and His Men, which will be held in Lexington, Kentucky today, (October 18,) will be an event of wide-spread interest. This monument, which is given by the United Daughters of the Confederacy, has cost $15,000.00 to produce and it stands, not only as a memento of the great Confederate General, but also as a beautiful remembrance of the splendid efforts of these still more splendid women who have toiled faithfully in the work of raising the funds with which to defray the expenses of erecting the monument.

The unveiling ceremonies will be a fitting climax to the great convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy which will be held in Lexington this week. The ceremonies are of a very elaborate character and include General Basil W. Duke and Major Otis Tenny, Masters of Ceremonies, an invocation by the Reverend William T. Punch, an address of welcome by Mayor John Skain, of Lexington, an address by Governor Augustus E. Willson, an address by the State President of the U. D. C., Mrs. L. McF. Blakemore, a prayer by Reverend E. O. Guerrant, the benediction by the Reverend John R. Deering. Besides the above, the chief address of the occasion will be delivered by Dr. Guy Carleton Lee, of Baltimore, Md.

Immediately before the unveiling ceremonies, which will take place on the famous court house square where the monument has been erected, a session of the convention will be held in the Woodland Park Auditorium, and where a parade of magnificent proportions will be formed, including the members of Morgan's Men, Confederate Veterans, State Officials of the United Confederate Veterans, the Monument Committee,

This monument is an Equestrian Statue, said to be the finest of its character in existence today; it is the work of Signor Pompeo Coppini. It is cast in bronze and is placed upon an imposing pedestal of the choicest granite. General Morgan's brother pronounces the statue a remarkable likeness of the great General.

HIS SHREW Scheme.

He was an old man who had married for the second time and he had grown children by the first wife. Also, he had a big bunch of property. And his idea was to leave every cent he had to his second wife. "It won't do at all," I advised him. "Your children are going to make an awful fight to break such a will, and they are likely to be successful." "That's just what I want to do," answered my foxy client. "I want my children to have a full share of my money. That's why I bequeath everything to my wife. I know that wife of mine. And it's going to be a lot easier for my children to break my will than it is for me to break hers."

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Mrs. Herbert B. Kinsolving will entertain with a reception at her beautiful home on North Maysville street Friday afternoon.

Bridge Party.

Mrs. G. E. Coleman and daughter, Miss Lizzie Prewitt Coleman entertained quite a number of their friends last Friday afternoon with a progressive bridge party. There were about seventy-five guests present and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. A delicious course luncheon was served.

Misses Wood Entertain.

Misses Lodema and Lillian Wood will entertain at their handsome home on Clay street this afternoon, (Wednesday), from 2 until 5 with an afternoon tea in honor of Mrs. T. Badger Robertson. Quite a large number of invitations have been issued and the afternoon is looked forward to with much pleasure by the invited guests.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick Entertains.

Mrs. Chas. W. Kirkpatrick entertained at her home on West High street last week at Bridge in honor of Mrs. G. C. Anderson and Miss Eula Perry, whose engagement to Mr. N. T. McKee, was announced some weeks ago.

The house was tastefully decorated and at the conclusion of the games a delicious luncheon was served. The afternoon passed quickly for the enjoying guests.

Mrs. Duff's Shower.

Mrs. T. Newton Duff entertained with a linen shower last Friday afternoon in honor of Miss Eula Perry, who is to become the bride of Mr. N. T. McKee, some time this fall.

The beautiful country home was artistically decorated and quite a number were present to enjoy Mrs. Duff's hospitality.

A delightful luncheon was served and the afternoon was one of the most enjoyable occasions of the season.

Miss Arthur Entertains.

Miss Elizabeth Arthur entertained at her home on Holt avenue last Saturday afternoon. The dining room was decorated in yellow and red, with streamers, from the chandelier to the four corners of the table. At each plate was placed a toy for each guest. The occasion was the celebration of Miss Arthur's fourth birth day and at the conclusion of a delightful luncheon a splendid big cake, decorated with four candles, was cut. The afternoon was spent in playing games and all enjoyed the peanut hunt.

Among those present were Misses Hazel Sullivan, Catherine Redmon, Margaret Guthrie, Lorine Berry, Edna Owings and Fannette Owings; Messrs. J. Randolph Hobbs, Jr., Daryl McClung, William Cord and Earl King Senff. None of the guests wanted to go home, which speaks well for Miss Arthur as a hostess.

Miss Stofor Entertains.

The Stofor home on North Sycamore street was the scene of a delightful social function last Saturday afternoon when Miss Mary Cobb Stofor entertained at luncheon in honor of Mrs. Perry Allen, of St. Louis, Mo., the attractive guest and relative of Mrs. John Stofor.

Invitations were issued to thirty of Mt. Sterling's lovely young matrons and maids, almost all of whom responded. They came in holiday attire and wearing their brightest smiles, adding much to the charming picture, and "showing" the lady from Missouri what a bevy of Kentucky women is like.

The dining room was especially beautiful with its setting of rich old mahogany and decorations of gorgeous dahlias which were of the choicest size and colors, calling forth exclamations of admiration from the guests as they went from table to table to find their names on handpainted place cards. A five-course luncheon was served and was of the delicious kind for which the Stofor home is noted, and greatly was it enjoyed.

The guests lingered after the luncheon to listen to delightful music always made possible by the presence of the accomplished hostess.

Mrs. Allen is much sought after, several social affairs having already been arranged in her honor.

Is Powers to Be Judge?

The People's News, printed at Barbourville, the home of the thrice convicted procurer of assassination, says: "It is rumored that Judge O'Rear will, in case of his election as Governor, appoint the Hon. Caleb Powers as Judge of the Court of Appeals, to fill the vacancy created by his elevation to the Governor's chair. We hope this is not true, as we do not believe that Mr. Powers has had sufficient experience in the legal profession to qualify him to so important and so responsible a position. Judging from the influence exercised by Mr. Powers in the Louisville convention we are not at all surprised that such a deal may have been made."

HAS ANCIENT MUSKET.

Perhaps the oldest gun in the United States is that owned by Alex. King of Richmond, Va. Ninety-seven years ago this month King's grandfather purchased a flintlock musket, which at that time was the very latest model in small firearms. Today the piece is in working order and can be fired as accurately as it could when purchased. The gun was made in 1814, the same year it was purchased by the elder king.

DOUBLE ACTION PRESCRIPTION.

On a wet and bitter night in winter old Dr. B. was summoned from his snug home to attend a farmer threatened with pneumonia, says Lippincott's Magazine. The farmer's wife, a little woman resembling a scared bird, reported that the patient called for hot punch, but that she awaited the doctor's permission before giving it.

"Make it," said Dr. Baird. "Make it as soon as you can, strong and hot, and let me see it."

The little woman soon fluttered in with the smoking punch. The doctor took it from her hands, examined it, smelled it, then drank it off and smacked his lips in critical satisfaction.

"Exactly," he said. "Give your husband one just like it, only half as much."

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

If you saw a row of apples, everyone differing in size, ripeness and color, and all for sale at the same price, wouldn't you choose the best? Why not do the same thing when you buy fire insurance? The cost of insurance is substantially the same in all agencies, but what you get for your money varies as much as the apples in the row.

Choose then HOFFMAN'S INSURANCE AGENCY. For Nearly Three Quarters of a Century it has paid every loss, big and little. Its reputation is unexcelled. It is the best fire insurance apple of them all, and its policies cost no more than those in agencies of inferior quality. Why not use the same judgment in buying insurance that you would in such a trivial matter as buying fruit at a fruit stand?

Vain Boasting of the Republicans.

Before the registration books were closed in the various cities, Congressman Langley issued a statement to the press in which he claimed great Republican gains in Eastern, Central and Western Kentucky. He congratulated the party upon a re-awakened interest, which, as he put it, gave assurance of Republican victory in November.

This vain boasting is in keeping with the practices of the Republican Campaign Committee and newspapers in this contest. They have gone to their imagination for their facts, finding sunshine where there is only darkness, and discovering Republican majorities where there are hopeless minorities. This is particularly true in their press reports of Judge O'Rear's audiences. By actual count at Owenton, on Wednesday, Judge O'Rear had one hundred and thirty-seven hearers, fully one-fourth of them being Democrats. The following day the Republican daily papers wrote big headlines over a dispatch from Owenton, stating that:

"Owen county laid her tribute of applause this afternoon before the cleansed altar of political purity erected by Judge O'Rear."

Usually, this reporter instead of having Judge O'Rear erecting altars, manufactures an audience of a thousand when barely two hundred people attend his meeting.

Going back to the question of registration, every one of the principle cities showed large Democratic gains. Louisville, Lexington, Frankfort and many others gave no comfort to the Republicans, but on the contrary, the increase in the Democratic vote proves conclusively that November will spell disaster for the entire Republican ticket.

It is evidently the policy of the Republican Campaign Committee, and the few newspapers that are supporting Judge O'Rear, to claim everything in the hope of blinding the people to the real conditions of affairs.

Refreshment.

When we reach the place where a measure of happiness is, we must not overpass it, thinking we shall some day return in fuller leisure. We shall not pass this way again, and if we did we could not find that hidden place. Nor must we hasten on with hot desire, deeming that we shall reach some other spot of more satisfying happiness further down the way. We may reach that place at the beginning of the journey, while we are still keen for the quest, or it may be after toilsome years. But whenever be the time, it behooves us to pause and consider well the spot. One finds cloistral retreat and place of happiness in art of research, ill-rewarded, unclaimed; in perfecting knowledge; in achieving beauty. Another finds it in one woman. Happiness is found in the home, in devotion to purposes larger than the individual life, wherever there is space for the heart to overspread other lives. There is refreshment in the majesty and tenderness of the natural world—in the turbulence of the rapid light touching the waves, in the plenty of autumnal harvests, in the calm of infinite hills.

Results of Democratic Primary at Lexington.

City Clerk J. Ernest Cassidy overwhelmed his opponents in the race for the Democratic nomination for Mayor at the primary election in Lexington last week, receiving 2,279 votes against 756 for J. Franklin Wallace, and 740 Bishop Clay. State Senator Thomas A. Combs was renominated over Arch Hamilton and S. J. Moore, his plurality over Hamilton, his nearest opponent, being 329. David C. Hunter, law partner of the Hon. W. P. Kimball, was nominated for Representative from the city and Charles B. Nichols for Representative from the county. Hogan L. Yancy, a lawyer, who, during the season just ended, was manager and one of the star players of the Bluegrass League, was nominated over two opponents for City Attorney. Mayor's Clerk James J. O'Brien was nominated for City Clerk over John Bain, Frank G. Ott was nominated for City Treasurer, J. White Guyn for City Surveyor, John McElroy for City Assessor and John Masner for Keeper of the Workhouse. McElroy and Masner having no opposition.

For Magistrate in the First district of the city to succeed the late Ben D. Bell, Charles P. Dodd was nominated over his opponents, Policemen J. H. Foster and Pollard McKinney.

A Little Dope in Which You Are Advised to Prop Up.

The best day the world has ever seen is this day. The sooner you get that view of life, the sooner your heart will blossom with happiness. Otherwise, you are making love to misery and Misery is an artful old harlot who sticks like a postage stamp. The pessimist prates of the good old times, the days when men were honest, a-living easy and everything fine and fit. The late Ananias could do no better. This day is the best day the world has ever seen. It is easier to make a living than ever before. The average man of this day lives better than the exception among men in times past. The house of the humble today is a palace compared to the domicile of the lords of a little while ago. Men are cleaner in character and in body than they have ever been. There is less dishonesty, less graft, less misery, less poverty than at any time in the history of this old ball. If you do not know that, you are woefully ignorant. And worse, you are sadly handicapped. You have got to look to the rising sun or the night is yours. We hear of the ranter ululate of the dying generation—its honesty and its chivalry. Praises be unto them, so far as they deserve, but Chimmy, my boy, there's more fiction in eulogy than the tellers of tales ever dreamed of. The old time merchant thought a pair of honest scales incompatible with a well ordered business. The honest farmer of the former generation may have been innocent plucking for the Yankee tin peddler and the lightning rod agent but in the course of a year he generally managed to square himself. In the eyes of the retrospectian the "honest farmer" comes down to us like a shining pillar of light, "a crown upon his head, a harp in hand." Very beautiful in poetry and melodrama and novels with paper backs! The only trouble in his luminous figure doesn't fit the facts. If Uncle Reuben fell for the fluency of a green goods merchant it was because of his cupidity. If he got stung, he generally passed the gaff. He paid his grocery bills largely in bad eggs and cord wood that never measured a cord if he could help it. He paid his doctor in rotten "nubbins," frozen spuds and swine with symptoms of cholera. When the roup got into his chickens, Uncle Reub went to market. If his prize yearling lay ill of fever, there was apt to be a little fresh beef peddled in that neighborhood. Honesty with him and with the merchant and with the lawyer and the doctor was generally a question of policy. If the harness-maker forgot who bought a missing bridle, he charged every customer having an open account, with a bridle. There's less stealing, less cheating, less lying, less harm in the world than ever before. Opportunities? The youngster of a generation ago had few and they were afar. Avocations were limited to scant fields of physical labor and fewer of mental. Inventions and science had not opened the hundreds of opportunities in the line of specialized talent. There were few jobs and many applicants for each of them. This condition was not local but universal. And the pay at the payer's option. He could set his own price. There was no rivalry for men. Today there are thousands of avocations our fathers never heard of, never dreamed of and yet at this moment the greatest demand the world ever knew for anything, is for efficient men. If you can do a thing better than somebody else, the world is yours. But bull don't go. The lip service has been taboored. Salary used to be an object with employers. Now the limit is off. So don't get stung by the no-opportunity germ. There are so many they are bewildering. It's a great big battle constructive civilization is waging and men are wanted. But dead ones need not apply. The man who lives in the past hasn't a show. You have got to be a working part in the eternal Now. The poet sneaks up in a garret and strums the lyre about the grand old days of Good Queen Bess! Take no stock in 'em, Agnes. Mere myth—mere myth. In the good old days of Mistress Bess, the average home was dirtier—literally dirtier than the pigsty of the up-to-date American farmer. The cold, dank earth was the flooring of homes in the days of Bess, and people slept on straw scattered over it. Pestilence was common because filth was universal. The glorious courtiers of her times would be thrown out of a second class restaurant today should they rise from the dead and bring their table manners of their age into this. They were glutinous, drunken, and dirty both in morals and in person. The lordliest was the lousiest and entrance to the doors of the highest born meant an olfactory shock and a grab for the nostrils. Only yesterday I was reading an account of a great wedding they were about to celebrate in that dear Ol' Lunnion, between some little scandalous shrimp of a lord and an American heiress. The Englishman is a member of the Order of The Bath, and it's going some toward the top-notch, to be of this ancient and honorable order. Now you may or may not know that this ultimate rank of knighthood, so revered by the seekers after baubles for centuries, gives you the correct dope on the early Englishman. He hated a wash-tub as he hated a snake, and he didn't get over that dread until comparatively recent times. In fact he was dirtier than his dogs, and if he didn't have lice it was because he had luck. The Englishman was, of course, better than his continental compeers—cleaner than French or Spanish, more enlightened, or rather less ignorant than German or Italian. The Order of The Bath was the reward that Henry gave to Geoffrey of Anjou, and five others for their devotion to right. They were bathed as a sort of emblem of the purity of life that ought to be lived by the supporters of truth, justice, etc. That bath was the first they had ever had and history doesn't hint that they ever took another. Yes, Mister Dismal Face, the world is cleaner and better than it ever was. It would have taken a royal treasury to have given the rich of the old days even a taste of the comforts that are now the poor man's common-place possessions. Better food, better clothing, better homes, better modes of life and better ideals make this day Utopia, compared to the days that are hal- lowed by hungry poets and eulogized by billions of critics. Don't gulp down the gloomy stuff. Don't shirk, don't quit, but get in the game. Don't let your liver spray its bile over a sane view of life. Get a job and stick to it. Save your money, and your days will be many and peaceful. Don't worship the dollar, but bear in mind it's a good old pal and loyal to those who use it well. If you have judgement, you will make one dollar earn another, and soon many will be out silently recruiting others. In a little while you will have an army to defend the fortress of old age. Suppose you had started ten or fifteen years ago. You would have something now. Just remember the next ten or fifteen are going to pass along, regardless of what you do or don't. Better use 'em well.—Arkansaw Thomas Cat.

A Recipe.

The not-at-all melancholy days have come when the information man of a certain Western newspaper is besieged to reprint his exquisitely worded formula for making persimmon beer. For various reasons we suspect that the reading public is rather more interested in the flavor of the words than in any honest desire to compete with the breweries; and we doubt, in these days of ex- and intensive farming, if many persons are fortunate enough to be able to harvest so large a crop as three-fourths of a barrel of persimmons.

Put a spigot near the bottom of a barrel; put some straw in the bottom of the barrel, about five or six inches deep. Fill the barrel three-fourths full of persimmons, and then fill nearly full of water, and in a few days the beer will be ready for use.

We feel it necessary, however, to report the warning that this brew is "heady and intoxicating."

MOTHER SAVES HER INFANT

Chicago Woman in Motor Wreck Shields Baby but Her Skull Is Fractured.

To save the life of her baby Mrs. Grace Arney risked her own life in a motor car smashup in Chicago. The mother was thrown 20 feet from the car and carried home unconscious, her skull fractured and with internal injuries. The baby escaped dangerous injury. In the accident eight were injured, five being children.

Harry Arney, secretary and treasurer of a publishing company, who was driving the car, failed to see a rapidly moving Evanston avenue street car as he was crossing that thoroughfare. The street car struck the front of the machine and tossed it back a dozen feet, throwing the women and children of the party to the pavement. Although Mrs. Arney's head struck the pavement with great force, she was still holding the child close to her bosom when aid reached her. All the injured will recover except Mrs. Arney, who is believed to be fatally injured.

MUST NOT ALTER DECALOGUE

Writer Says to Modify the Commandments by Omission Would Be Dangerous Precedent.

To modify by omission any part of canonical Scripture, particularly the Decalogue, would be a precedent fraught with danger. The meaning of the Bible is often warped in the effort to make it harmonize with people's prejudices, but the full text must remain untouched. The fear of ancient copyists to alter one "jot or tittle" of the sacred writing is what has brought the Scriptures down to us as free from error as they are. The common supposition of scholars that the original form of the Decalogue consisted merely of the bare commands, the explanatory comments being added subsequently, may be true; but that would not justify the Church of England making the change proposed. A quite different proposition is this from the modification of a credal statement.—Leslie's.

ELECTROCUTE EGGS.

It is possible that the peculiar taste of a cold storage egg, which is something not easy to mistake, may be removed if experiments now being made by an electrical company are successful. Says the Inventive Age: "It is claimed that when fresh eggs are placed in cold storage the eggs are alive; that they are slowly frozen to death and that in spite of the preservation qualities of the ice the eggs do not taste good when cooked. It is now believed that by electrocuting the eggs the natural fresh taste may be retained and not removed when the eggs are placed in cold storage. The eggs are 'killed' by placing a metal cap on each end of the egg and then throwing on a pressure of 500 volts."

SIGNIFICANT NOTICE.

Richard Croker, the day of his departure for his Irish home, said to a New York reporter:

"It is the desire for freedom that sends so many Americans and so many millions of dollars abroad every June. The Puritanical laws of America enslave us. These laws, with their total misconception of freedom and of enjoyment, are well exemplified in a notice board I once saw in a New England park. The board said:

"Pleasure Grounds. Notice. These grounds are for pleasure only. No games or play allowed."

WHAT CONSCIENCE DOES.

It is not history which teaches consistence to be honest; it is the conscience which educates history. Fact is corrupting, it is we who correct it by the persistence of our ideal. The soul moralizes the past in order not to be demoralized by it. Like the alchemists of the middle ages, she finds in the crucible of experience only the gold that she herself has poured into it.

GOLD MINES AND MEN.

George Gold, at a dinner at Georgian court, said wittily of a suspected gold mine.

"Gold mines are like human beings—they can't be judged by their appearances. You know what Frank R. Stockton used to say about judging by appearances:

"Don't trust a man because he carries a silk umbrella—he may have left a cotton one in its place."

Life Saver

In a letter from Branchland, W. Va., Mrs. Elizabeth Chapman says: "I suffered from womanly troubles nearly five years. All the doctors in the county did me no good. I took Cardui, and now I am entirely well. I feel like a new woman. Cardui saved my life! All who suffer from womanly trouble should give Cardui a trial."

E 61

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

50 years of proof have convinced those who tested it, that Cardui quickly relieves aches and pains due to womanly weakness, and helps nature to build up weak women to health and strength. Thousands of women have found Cardui to be a real life saver. Why not test it for your case? Take Cardui today!

No Doubt of Democratic Victory.

Chairman R. H. Vansant of the Democratic Campaign Committee, has issued a statement predicting Democratic success. This is not the claim of a rainbow-chaser who is fooling both himself and his party, but is the frank opinion of a practical man, who is in touch with every county in the State, and who can speak authoritatively of the work that is being done.

The organization is the best that has been made in Kentucky in many years. It not only comprises old and new leaders, but goes into every precinct and enlists the support of the rank and file, which, after all, determines whether victory or defeat shall be the portion of any party.

Every man who has attended the Democratic meetings, bears testimony to the accuracy of Chairman Vansant's prediction. The great crowds, the unbridled enthusiasm, and the hearty welcome given Democratic candidates and speakers recall the old days in Kentucky, when the State went forty thousand Democratic without an effort.

It only remains for the Democrats to go to the polls to place Kentucky where it belongs, back in the list of Democratic States, never again to stay away from the old faith and the old traditions.

The True Test of Statesmanship.

"When Themistocles was asked by his host at a dinner party to entertain the guest by playing the lute, he replied that he could not play a fiddle, but that he could make a small town a great city. We have in Texas many politicians who are good 'fiddlers,' but they cannot make a small town a great city. We are overrun with orators who can play upon the passions of the people, but they can't put brick and mortar together. We need builders.

"Let those who hunger and thirst for power understand that the highest glory of a statesman is to construct and that it is better for a man that he should build a public highway than that he should become Governor of the State and that he start a plow than he become the author of a law. The true test of statesmanship is the plow and the hammer and let those who would govern, first build. Texas need great men."

So writes the Secretary of the Commercial Club of Fort Worth. To the political orators, agitators and demagogues we commend what he writes. What Kentucky needs is builders, not flute players; men who can make a small town a great city, not men who protest in flamboyant phrases their devotion to the higher law and couple with such protests appeals to the lowest passions. Demagogues who blow first hot and then cold, who one night denounce the Legislature, alleging that it is controlled by Lobbyists who elect United States Senators, and the next night crown with a halo of glory that Senator to whom the night before their auditors believed they referred, are a curse to every state.

An illustration is being given in eastern Kentucky of the work that is needed in Kentucky. Quietly, earnestly, for years labored men who had the vision of the dreamer and the courage of the soldier! As a result of their dreams and their labors towns are being built, railroads constructed, mines opened, forests felled, and better still other forests planted. These men realizing what the future needs, midway between great deeds before and deeds as great behind, knowing the necessity for the reign of law and kindness, are anxiously awaiting Election Day in the hope that Governor McCreary, who stands for the preservation of law and the maintenance of order, will be elected Governor and the flute player and the fiddler, the orator and the demagogue be retired to the position of Judge of the Court of Appeals for the performance of the duties of which he is drawing a salary, though not performing those duties. Truly does Ken-

Presbyterians to Meet.

Announcement has been made that the Synod of Kentucky of the Presbyterian Church will meet at the Second Presbyterian Church in Lexington October 27 and continue until October 31. One hundred and twenty-five churches are represented and more than one hundred representative ministers and laymen will attend the meeting, which will be opened Friday night, with sermon by Rev. Peyton H. Hoge, of Louisville, retiring moderator. He will preside until a new moderator is elected. It has been ten years since the Synod assembled in Lexington, and this will be the fifth or sixth time that it has met with this church, which is one of the oldest in the Synod.

Several national representatives will be present to speak, among these being the Rev. Baxter R. Fullerton, of St. Louis, former moderator of the general assembly of the United States; the Rev. Warren H. Wilson, representing the department of the country church in America.

Ben Johnson Wins Fight.

After a fight conducted for a year Congressman Ben Johnson, of Kentucky, Congressman Cox, of Jasper, Ind., and William J. Dwyer, of Washington, D. C., Emil L. Scharf has been ousted from membership in Washington Council, Knights of Columbus, and expelled from the order on the charge of political activity within the organization.

"Scharf was charged with using the order and the church for political purposes," said Dwyer.

It was also specifically alleged that while in the employ of the National Republican Committee, Scharf sought to alienate Catholic votes from Bryan to Taft during the last Presidential campaign. The action of the Knights of Columbus is significant and will have a wholesome effect. It means that the mixing of church and politics will not be tolerated.

Lexington Trots.

The trotting meeting at Lexington was brought to a close Saturday after two weeks of splendid racing. The meet was not a success financially, due to the heavy rains which caused several postponements.

Relieves Backache Instantly

Sloan's Liniment is a great remedy for backache. It penetrates and relieves the pain instantly—no rubbing necessary—just lay it on lightly.

Here's Proof.

"I had my back hurt in the Boer War and in San Francisco two years ago I was hit by a street car in the same place. I tried all kinds of dope without success. Two weeks ago I saw your liniment in a drug store and got a bottle to try. The first application caused instant relief, and now except for a little stiffness, I am almost well."
